GOLF

DUMMER LOSES FIRST MATCH

On April 25 the Dummer golf team opened the season with Philips Exeter at Exeter. It is the first time in several years that the two schools have gotten together, and although Dummer was white-washed several of the matches were close. Arnold scored lowest for Dummer with an 86. Finley and Bloch were low for Exeter with an 80 apiece. Finley, playing number 1 for Exeter, was medalist in the qualifying round of the Metropolitan Junior last year. Finley won from Arnold 2 up and 1 to go. Bloch beat English 5 up and 3 to go. Pond of Exeter beat Kenney 3 and 2. Hershey of Exeter beat Terhune 9 and 7. Finley and Bloch beat Arnold and English 1 up on the eighteen. Pond and Hershey beat Kenney and Terhune 6 up and 4 to go. Kenney and English each scored an 89. The course at Exeter is a new one and the poor turf and boulders at such an early stage of the season made playing exceptionally difficult although the holes were all short.

LOWELL DEFEATS DUMMER 6-1 ON OULD NEWBURY LINKS

In the second match of the year Dummer met defeat at the hands of the Lowell High representatives. Arnold was the only Dummer man to win a match. His 90 was the best score of the day. His victory came on the seventeenth green 2 up and 1 to play. English carried his man to the seventeenth green only to lose 3 up and 1 to play. His opponent A. S. Howard made a score of 91. Kenney lost his match to C. Howard 4 up and 3 to play. Fearnside lost to Williams 8 and 6 and Terhune passed the laurels to Eigenbrot 5 and 4. In the doubles Arnold and Kenney lost to Grasse and C. Howard 3 and 2, English and Fearnside lost to Williams and A. S. Howard 3-2. Grasse will be a strong contender for the Junior State Championship.

GROTON 10—DUMMER 5

Dummer on the Small End in the Opener.

Dummer opened the baseball season with Groton School on April 18th. Our team put up a poor exhibition of baseball for the first three innings and Groton taking advantage secured eight runs before the South Byfield boys settled down. White was on the mound for Dummer but when he was given the hook at the end of the third the damage was done. McGinley, a fielder, was put in to stem the slaughter and did. Eleven hits were made off White in three innings. Inexperience caused a lot of trouble, and a lot of bones by the veterans did not help in the scoring. Dummer had several opportunities to tie up the score but stupid base running threw away the chances. McGinley was the bright particular star of the Dummer team, he singled, doubled, and got a home run out of five times at the bat. His six innings in the box showed that he can also fill this position. Faversham excelled for Groton, making three hits and striking out seven in six innings.

DEWITT CLINTON 6—DUMMER 5

Dummer Throws Away the Game in the Sixth.

On a wet and soggy field Dummer again had a fatal inning and handed the game to the visitors. After the Groton game Coach Reagan shook up his team and presented a new lineup. Capt. Hinds going back of the plate and Forsberg taking center field. Emerson covered second and Derby was given a chance on the stormy corner. For the first three innings neither team was able to force a run across the plate. In the fourth inning a double by Hinds and heady base running by McGinley sent two runs across the plate. In the sixth with two out the Dummer defense crumbled, a double by our former schoolmate, Judd, followed by errors and two more hits gave the visitors six runs. In our half of the sixth singles by Hinds and Emerson and a triple by McGinley added three runs to the Dummer score. For the remaining three innings only three men saw first base.

Hinds behind the bat has strengthened the battery although it has weakened the infield. DeWitt was unable to steal a single base on the Captain.

DUMMER 17—TRAIP 4

Dummer Breaks Into the Right Column.

With weather more suitable for football than the national sport, Dummer treated the Traip Academy team, making their first appearance here, to the short end of the score. McGinley twirled the first four innings and allowed one hit. Errors in the fourth forced in a run. Fitzsimmons, a Freshman and a coming pitcher, ascended the mound for the next three frames, in the sixth and seventh only six batters faced him, three taking their seats by the strike out route. White went in for the last two innings, only six batters stepped to the plate in these final innings. Mr. Reagan was charitable and gave every one on the squad an opportunity to show off their uniforms. The line-up is only given. The box score as figured by the assistant manager was too complicated to figure out.

The line-up:

Dummer—Hinds c, Morse rf, Brown rf, McGinley p, cf, Lovett cf, Derby 3b, Sawyer lf, Sleeper lf, Whalen lf, Kenney 2b, Haley 2b, Forsberg cf, White p, Hart ss, Watkins 1b, Fitzsimmons p.

EDITORIAL

How much of the beauty that is around us we miss. How many of us look about at the splendid views which are on all sides of us? There was never a more beautiful spot for a school than this one, yet how few appreciate it. The majority of fellows in a school and the majority of business men never take the time to look at the sun set or a pine clad hill in the distance, nor do they ever think of such a thing when they have any time. Yet there is nothing more restful to the mind or more peaceful to the soul than to gaze at beauty and give oneself to reflection. It is well for anyone to set aside a portion of each day for thinking and for introspection. If this were done there would be fewer business men who are unable to endure retirement, and there would be fewer nervous breakdowns. A balanced life is a necessity. One must have something which is a contrast to his usual work to rest him. Herbert Spencer's great criticism of America was that the Americans are too busy. They are always in a hurry, always rushing about, and they have no time, many of them, for the worthwhile things in life, is the gist of his criticism. He says that if we took more time for meditation we would be far more good in the world. One might say that if we did that we should not be able to compete with other countries in the business markets of the world; but England is the greatest imperial nation in the world, and if we pursue a free trade policy England could undersell us in our own markets. If we are to believe English writers the English are a leisurely people.

Wordsworth says: "The world is too much with us, late and soon."

NEWS OF INTEREST

On Saturday evening, May 9, the most joyful, elegant, sumptuous event of the year will take place. In other words on that evening the Junior Promenade will take place. The dance committee, consisting of Arnold, chairman; Hinds, W. H. Kenney, Phillips and MacHutchinson, has long been elaborating plans for this dance, and it promises to be one of the best, if not the best, dances ever presented at the Academy. The music will be furnished by Dave Grant's Tech Orchestra of Cambridge. The dance will be held at the Ould Newbury Golf Club, and the Club's chef will furnish the refreshments. Dinner will be served before the dance at the Club. A full moon has also been prepared for the occasion by the thoughtful dance committee. The patrons and patronesses will be Dr. and Mrs. Ingham.

The Annual Dancing School Party was held in the Lang Gym on Thursday evening, April 23. This was the climax of ten dancing lessons given by a Mrs. Kimball of Newburyport.

The Rev. Dr. Judson of Maine was a visitor at Dummer during the last week-end. He preached an interesting sermon at the Byfield Congregational Church, Sunday morning, and he also gave a little talk to the boys during the evening Chapel service.

A large flag has been presented to the school by Mr. F. C. Alexander, the father of "Alex." This will fly on Flagpole Hill.

Capron and Hamilton are the winners in the Milestone short story contest, Capron winning first prize and Hamilton the second. May received honorable mention.

"Fighting Bob" McGinley, assistant coach of the Dummer ball club, displayed great presence of mind on the diamond here recently. "Fighting Bob" was batting out flies when someone tossed a swift liner over the plate. Being unable to stop it with his hands since he was holding a bat, "Fighting Bob" stopped it with his eye. How? Look at his eye, and you will see.

The Sophomore Dance has come and gone, but it enjoys the reputation of being the best dance ever given at the Academy and has set a high precedent for future classes to follow. Aside from the unusual decorations, favors and refreshments the thing which made this such an excellent dance was, as Doctor Ingham has said, the spirit of unselfishness which was displayed by the boys; everyone danced with everyone else; there was no unpleasant discrimination; everyone had a good time.

The Lang Gym was painstakingly and tastefully decorated in the class colors. A lattice-work of streamers hid the high roof, and the lights were lowered by extension cords and softened by shades. Around the walls were paper banners bearing the class numerals. Two "cosy corners" were also made, which proved to be very popular. The dance started with the conventional "grand march," during which dance orders were given out. The refreshments consisted of punch, sandwiches and ice-cream. Favors consisting of chic silver bracelets were given to the ladies. The dance orders, refreshments and favors were distributed by two of the Moody House boys, each attired in a very fancy livery. The music was furnished by LeRoy Curtis' orchestra of Boston.

But the Junior Prom is yet to come.

The evening study hall has been changed to start at 7:30. This is appreciated by all as it gives a little time to draw a breath after supper.

The much needed grading about Perkins Hall has been started. Let us hope that it will not stop until it is finished.

A large number of fruit trees have been set out to insure fruit for the future students of the Academy. These with the five thousand evergreens which have been planted make a respectable Arbor Day showing.

A new liquid marker has been purchased for the tennis courts. The old system of using tapes was found to be inadequate. The marker will prove of great value to the baseball and football managers.

Mathes '27 has been appointed assistant manager of baseball.

On April 25th the school was entertained in the Lang Gymnasium by a noted concert pianist of Boston, Mr. Walter M. Arno. Owing to the stormy weather only the school was present in force. All of Mr. Arno's selections were well received and especially the one of his own composition, Crystal Morning, which symbolized the broken branches and trees of the big ice storm of 1921.

His program was as follows:
Prelude Schutt
Hungarian Etude McDowell
Tarentello Whitney
Tuba Dance Bett
Hungarian Dance Brahms
Poem Late
Butterfly Chopin
Crystal Morning Arno
Ragamuffin Ireland
A Night in India Cobb

GYMNASTIC EXHIBITION

On the evening of April 10th the new equipment in the Lang Gym was put to test. The entertainment was arranged and carried through by Bridges '25. The first event was on the parallel bars. Ruiz carried off the honors by walking the length of the bars on his hands. He also carried off the first place on the horizontal bar, finishing with a graceful fall to the floor. His other stunt, which was not duplicated, was to stand on his finger tips. Terhune and Ruiz both were able to turn the somersault in the air. Ayers then did the arm pull on the bar only to be duplicated by the super gymnast Ruiz. Derby carried off the prize on the travelling rings and the flying rings that the other contestants found difficult to duplicate. Bridges proved to have the best teeth and his suspension act with his masticators did not have any imitators.

In the pole climb Bridges made the distance in 14 seconds, Matthes in 13 and Ruiz in 10. Derby tried to go halfway in 5 but failed in the attempt.

Lifting the barbell went to Ruiz. He raised the weight 100 lbs. over his head, with the arms straight, 9 times. Bridges put the weight up 3 times, the others who tried used too much body and were disqualified.

The points were: Ruiz 634, Bridges 450, Derby 352, Matthes 332, Ayers 146, Schultz 133, Terhune 50.

and third innings and scored enough runs to win the game. Dummer playing the best defensive game they have shown this year shut out the visitors for the last six frames. Poor offense on our part and the pitching of Humphries, who is rated as one of the best in Prep school ranks, allowed us only two runs. Things looked promising in the ninth when a man hit by a pitched ball and three bases on balls gave us a chance but poor judgement on the bases gave us only one run. Hinds' work behind the bat was one of the features of the game, only one stolen base was chalked up against him. Ragged fielding in the second and third, inability of the outfield to judge easy flies gave the visitors hits that should not have been so labelled. For Powder Point, Humphries, George and Havens put up the best game. For the home talent, McGinley, Hinds and Emerson were the best performers.
